Having just had the sides of our boat repainted by Oxon Boat Painting Company we can highly recommend them.

From the first visit to our boat to provide an estimate we were left with the impression that these professional coach painters were clearly knowledgeable, cared about their work and wanted to do their best for their customers. They were head and shoulders above the other companies we had approached, being willing to openly discuss the pros and cons of the options open to us and importantly provide a clear breakdown of the actual costs.

They also proved to be approachable, easy to get hold of and flexible - the original date for repainting we had to change and Oxon managed to juggle around work at their two bases to accommodate us.

The end result is fantastic and we are delighted. Other boaters in the marina where we are based and those we meet on the cut are also highly impressed. One neighbour runs his own shot blasting/painting business and is full of praise for the work done and the cost. Not a bad accolade we think!

Many thanks
